

Communication Between Medical Professionals and People with Disabilities

The ECAAC is conducting a voluntary survey of local doctors that we hope will benefit doctor-patient communication. It has come to our attention that not only those suffering from a disability have problems expressing their reason for visit, but perhaps patients in general.

- 1) Do you feel a written explanation of visit also accompany patient in consultation or perhaps another form email etc. to be beneficial? We invite you to express any other idea or method which would help the doctor and the patient. All replies will be held in confidence, and only doctor's initials need to be attached if so desired.

Thank you for your time and consideration,

ECAAC