

Nature Works!

Restoring Our Future by 2030

Join us to accelerate action for healthy resilient landscapes

Bram & Bluma Appel Salon
Toronto Reference Library, 2nd Floor
789 Yonge Street, Toronto, M4W 2G8

Wednesday, March 11, 2020
9:00 am - 6:30 pm

We are pleased to share the agenda for Nature Works! Restoring our Future by 2030, a day of cross-sector action on climate change and biodiversity loss.

With a new urgency aligned with the UN Decade of Ecosystem Restoration (2021-2030), we will highlight emerging strategies to accelerate and scale up action for healthy, resilient landscapes. Interactive networking sessions will feature:

- Indigenous leadership for healthy landscapes for seven generations
- Municipalities leading for climate-smart natural infrastructure across urban, peri-urban and rural areas
- Corporations investing in nature-based climate solutions for a growing green economy
- Local leaders and businesses connecting to make a big impact with native plants and new tools for resilient neighbourhoods
- Innovative and practical strategies for healthy communities, social impact investment, and next generation climate action

Early Bird pricing ends soon, so register now to secure your spot and save up to 25%!

View Nature Works Agenda

Thank you.

Sarah Winterton | Director, Nature-Connected Communities | WWF-Canada
t: 416-484-7727 | c: 647-281-9521 | e: swinterton@wwfcanada.org | w: wwf.ca
